JTAS is now Covered in BIOSIS

The Journal Division, UPM Press, Office of the Deputy Vice Chancellor (R&I) is pleased to make the following announcement.

The Editorial Development, THOMSON REUTERS, New York, USA has selected Pertanika Journal of Tropical Agricultural Science (JTAS) to be covered in BIOSIS Previews. All Pertanika journals are currently under evaluation for the Science Citation Index and related products.

Every item included in BIOSIS means that the Journal has met the high standards of an objective evaluation process that eliminates clutter and excess and delivers data that is accurate, meaningful and timely.

In addition, all Pertanika Journals are indexed in SCOPUS (Elsevier), EBSCO and DOAJ. JTAS is also indexed in AGRICOLA and CABI.

Pertanika caters for scientists, professors, researchers, post-docs, scholars and students who wish to promote and communicate advances in the fields of Agriculture; all areas of Science & Technology; and Social Sciences & Humanities research through its three titles; JTAS, JST & JSSH are encouraged to submit article to Pertanika Journals.

All three Pertanika titles are accepted and published in English and are open to authors around the world regardless of the nationality. Currently JTAS and JSSH are published four times a year; JTAS is published in February, May, August, and November; and JSSH in March, June, September and December. JST continues to be published twice a year, in Jan and July.
